Highly proficient and trusted leader who values customer and client relationships. [Confidential Corporation] specializes in helping customers manage inventory by using onsite and cloud-based management systems. With a reputation for proven success in bottom-line impact, always with a strong focus, I fruitfully sustain budget control and operational results.

I am VP/Vice President of Operations for [Confidential Corporation], but my love for leading and mentoring grew during my 15+ year span of working with students and teachers as [confidential corp and work information]. It was this strong foundation that catapulted me into [Confidential Corporation], an environment that builds solutions for optimizing business distribution and manufacturing inventory operations. I thrive in staff supervision and management while working closely with the senior project manager. I compassionately respond to all client concerns and escalations.

In addition to managing the company's billable revenue and tightening cost controls on various projects, I value communication. Without this significant component, the open and consistent camaraderie I have with my staff would not be as strong as it is today. This solid attribute allows me to successfully oversee my team while playing a key role in Weekly Kickoff Meetings and ensuring project deadlines and budgets are met. From this, I possess the ability to obtain satisfactory results when gently but firmly contacting customers with overdue invoices.

With a larger-than-life enthusiasm for people in my life, I excel in growing and cultivating long-lasting relationships with my teammates so we can work together delivering solutions. Together, we help clients automate inventory procedures with real-time prominence across a diverse Eco-system. We are successfully targeted to meet the prerequisites and funds of small and middle-sized businesses. We are all leaders here because we believe in 'doing things,' instead of 'getting credit for doing things.' I really like that concept.

Our most innovative accomplishments to date are:

- Supporting clients who need multiple bar-codes per item
- Better Solutions for Labor-Intensive Picking
- Over 30 Picking Configurations
- Fast and Easy Site Transfers
- Efficiency in Movements and Transactions

Since 2001, we have serviced client-fields in industries such as Food, Retail, Oil and Chemical and Bio-Medical and Pharmaceutical, among others. Working with teams on business projects is one of my favorite passions, not just because of our visions, ambitions, and dynamics but because I get to be a part of making client solutions come to life.

I am forward-thinking and feel excited about my work. I thrive on connecting with staff, clients, and colleagues. Clients love that I pay attention to their desires, and they recognize I value their smiles. They know I'm personable and will communicate honestly. My staff identifies that I am fair and open-minded. They know I respect their time and will resolve escalated issues promptly.

It is an absolute honor enriching the lives of others.
